COMMENT OF THE DAY

the special committee appointed to investigate the Colony's housing problem is a sobering document. It abundantly clear there is no magical solution available; that if the poorer people of Hongkong are to get adequate housing, new policies allied with a longterm plan are essential.

initial difficulty confronting the committee has been lack of vital data and statisties; for example, how many require resettling or rehousing and what is their rent-paying ability. The committee, and for that matter anyone else, can only hazard a very rough guess, and guesswork makes problematical a longterm housing plan.

A census undoubtedly would be of some help. The committee urges it as a priority, It would not provide all the required data. but it could offer some useworking statistics, would pinpoint areas of population density and asaccuracy the number of roof dwellers and other displaced -inhabitants, Im∞ mediate official attention to this question is advocated.

is now generally recognised that the Colony's housing problem has two components -- resettlement (tof squatters) and the provision of houses for poorer sections of the community and the lower-paid white collar classes. The resettlement programme has made useful progress and apparently could accelerated, given the removal of "bottlenecks." But the overriding handicap both as regards resettlement and creation of new residential suburbs uppears to be unavailability of developed sites.

The committee has faced up to this issue what would be the value of version was released tonight. the land for development or

London, July 17. A Socialist MP predicted today that the British Government is heading into "an utterly anomalous" position over the trade embargo on China.

Mr W. Donald Chapmen said he understood that between 40 and 50 tractors and a number of small trucks had been exported to China as "samples" under the exceptions procedure prescribed by the general agreement on the embargo.

These "samples" were likely to produce sizable orders but the Government apparently saw little hope of easing the embargo at least until after the US presidential elections

Turning to Marchal Georgi Zhukov, Defence Minister, he remarked "isn't that right?" Mr Khrushchev derided the Western countries for calling themselves the "free world,"

Mr Khrushchev also derided the "freedom of the press" in the West, where he said the working class "have the right but not the money to have their own newspapers and radio,"

Although "imperialists greatly love to talk about their electoral system" they "crushed" the Guatemala government "legally elected by the people," he said, Mcreover, there had been no elections in Vietnam this summer as agreed at the 1954 Geneva conference because South Victnam "there has been formed, instead of the French, a most, so to speak, democratic state, and it firmly holds it in its paws."

Takeout Bid Misses Game

By OSWALD JACOBY

COUTH made 11 tricks with the greatest of ease in today's hand. Then the arguments began. South wouldn't feel so happy at game in clubs if West opened a spade, was one opinion. Who cared about South's happiness, North wanted to know. Just let him take the diamond finesse and he'd make five clubs even if West opened a green suit. While this pleasant little argument went on, the players overlooked the important details. How should South bid to reach a game contract, and which game contract should be reach? To begin with, South should respond to the takeout double with a bid of three clubs instead Then you may devote time to a mere two. A takeout double promises a hand of greater strength than a minimum opening bid. Therefore the responder can afford to invite

In this case, South would taid two hearts with about another king. jump response in a new suit is highly invitational but not completely forcing. North would pass three clubs if he had a very light takeout double. He would accept the invitation it he had sound values for his

In this case, South would bld three clubs, and North would have a problem. If North bid dour clubs, South would bid five. If North made the somewhat delicate bid of three diamonds, South would bid three notrump, In either case, however, South would get to a sound game contract. The important thing was to begin by bidding three clubs.

LOSS ON TRANSFER FEES

Aston Villa Now Owe The Bank And Other Creditors £42,000

By ARCHIE QUICK

What is the price of a place in the First Division of the Football League? How much is it worth to avoid relegation? Famous Aston Villa paid out nearly £70,000 in transfer fees last season and placed themselves £42,000 "in the red" in twelve months. They just scraped clear of the big drop to Division Two and Hudderssield Town and Shessleid United went down.

This Tailor Wants His Stride To Suit Melbourne's Track

By GEORGE WHITING

A pink and downy-cheeked six-footer, no thicker than a pencil, has just dropped in to knock for six the uncomfortable tradition that the only go-getters in sport are foreigners, with the couldn't-care-less British sauntering along behind in a haze of hope.

His name is Brian Stanford Hewson. He is 23 years old. He lives at Norbury. He cuts gents natty suitings for a living. And he is going to lick all creation in the Olympic Games 1500 Metres in Melbourne next November. Or bust.

Hewson murmurs deprecatingly into his orange squash about not yet being selected; and about the hot company of Messrs. Pirie and Co. to be encountered when he defends his AAA Mile Championship at the White City (He was second to Ken Wood). But such offerings on the altar of politeness need not fool anybody.

For in the next breath, he revealed that, once picked, he will not be welling for the official aircraft hired to haul the Clympic team to Australia. PARADE

This week we use the Spot of Honour at the Top of the Sports Parade to say 'Au revoir' to the many fine sportsmen in the 1st Bn. Essex Regiment who left the Colony earlier this week.

The 'Pompadours' enjoyed great popularity and a fine reputation for good sportsmanship in many spheres of Hongkong sport and their sojourn here is recorded for posterity through the brilliant athletic achievements of men like Keith Burch. This accomplished athlete broke record after record and his name is in consequence entered several times in the appropriate books of the Hongkong Amateur Athletic Association.

But the pilot dous at all times and the died some time later in another i crash, the cause of which was slightest slip can spell disaster, Pllots rate the jungle country of central Malaya as some of the tricklest flying country in the world.

YICIOUS STORMS

Sudden down draughts can suck the small Austers down for hundreds, of feet and dash them against the tree tops below. Cloud and sudden victors storms are every-day cecur-

But above all, pilots know that when they are over deep jungle, there is only a small chance of their being able to make a forced landing if something goes wreng. Should they come down safely through the tops of trees hundreds of feet plane made it possible to surabove the ground, they are vive most crashes, providing still faced with the biggest the Auster was not travelling hazaid of all getting out alive.

One man who succeeded, Surgeant Kenneth McConnell, made headlines all over the world with his tale of heroism McCennell, limping from injuries, walked for 22 days towards safety until aborigines troops, from Communist posifound him.

He cut crutches to help his progress and lived on jungle roots and berries. And he was nearly dead when he was brought back to civilisation.

This day-in day-east flying over the jungle, in planes just like those which private fliers use for weekend pleasure trips ht home, is one of the most dangerous jobs in Malaya,

In one Auster flight visited, cut of a dozen pilots two had been killed in crashes in a month and almost every manin the flight bad croshed at least once during his tour The Austers form Royal Air Force squadrons, although the pilots are highly-trained army men, many of the officers being skilled artillery observers.

TWO DUTIES

Normally the Austers perform two duties, acting as aerial ob-Servation posts in directing artillery fire and flying on communications and llaison missions.

But in Malaya they are concerned mainly with reconnaissance and supply, Besides hunting out Communist hiding-places, also aid patrols in the Jungle by dropping messages, food and ammunition. Much of this flying has to be done at low altitudes, and it is at those heights that the tricky Malayan weather makes it "dley." Captain S. Whitehead Gillingham, Kent, who commands the Auster flight at Taiping, said that his pilots flow mainly in the valleys bethe 4,000ft mountain ridge behind the town, To reach this operational irea, they had to use two passes through the mountains,

Nearly every afternoon, thick cloud formed, blocking both routes. Captain Whitehead said that the pilots had to keep a constant watch on the passes in

It clouds cut their escape route, they had to make for alternative landing grounds, some of which were only rough strips, hacked out of the jungle. At certain times of the year, powerful air pockets develop in the mountain valleys which are a menace to low-flying.

"But we have to fly low to enrry out our work," Captain Whitehead said, "This is one of the risks we just have to take." It was one of these air curof Captain Whitehead's pilots several months ago. When his plane crashed, the pllot was hanging upside down in his

STALIN ISSUE AT FRENCH RED CONGRESS

Le Havre, July 17.

The French Communist Party is about to hold its fifth national congress since the war in an atmosphere of unrest caused by Moscow's "de-Stalinisation" campaign.

The French Congress here may provide indications whether the democratisation or de-Stalinisation of the Party is making any progress,

The French Communist Party was long considered, and prided itself on being, the most Stallnist of Communist parties outside the Soviet Union. French Communists are widely considered to have devoted "personality cult" of their own around the party's Secretary-General, ailing 56-year-old M. Maurice Thorez

Usually well-informed non-Communist sources have reported scores of letters pouring into the Central Committee from Stalln campaign and demanding party's newspaper in Paris, adpaign was causing "legitimate Congress is recruitingemotion" among Party members. Other main themes of the

Not In Open

More recently, "Humanite" launched a campaign for peace in Algeria. In May one edition was confiscated by the police for a report alleging "summary executions and shooting of hostages" in Algeria.

But the Communists did not go into open opposition—to the Government, They abstained when the Government asked for a confidence vote on its North Africa policy in June and returned to its support on a recent bill to increase old-age pensions in France.

Another subject expected to be discussed at the Le Havre

Non-Communist sources estimated the membership of the French Communist Party at 907,000 members immediately after the war and said that it had declined considerably since. At the 13th Party Congress In June 1954 a party spokesman admitted that the party had only 506,250 members and called for a mass recruiting drive:

Party officials membership has been increasing ever since and is now just over

Suffered Decline

Party spokesmen say support for the Party in the country was considerably increased in last January's general election. They claimed 5,623,178 votes-625,000 more than in the previous General Election in 1951, and an increase of 52 seats in the National Assembly.

In the general election in 1946 they polled 5,489,000 votes and won 174 seats in the National Assembly.

the Communist press here has suffered a decline since the war. Its daily newspapers today number seven, compared to 17 at the Liberation, and their total circulation is now less than that of Humanite ten years ago.

"Correspondance de Presse," an independent agency which gathers information about press matters, estimates that about 525,000 copies of all Communist newspapers are sold daily. In 1946 Humanite and its evening twin. Ce Soir, each topped 600,000 copies a day.

Six Provincials

Communist stopped printing in June, which has enabled Humanite. to increase its daily sales from about 180,000 to 240,000 during recent weeks. A Sunday edition, Humanite Dimanche, sells an estimated 512,000 copies. There are still six provincial

AUSTRALIAN WOOL CLIP MAY DROP

Sydney, July 17. Continued rain may cause a depreciation in the quality of the new neuson wool clip, according to leading wool experts. State-wide floods have extended over almost the entire inland river areas of New South Wates and Victoria, which provide almost 60 per cent of the total

Losses from malnutrition and drowning may be small, but flood waters generally cause a high ratio of intestinal and foot infection among sheep, Big numbers of wormy sheep would mean lighter wool of depreciated quality.

What The Latest Waterfront Trouble About

FROM H. KING WOOD

Sydney, July 11. Trouble has again risen on the Australian Waterfront over the size of the slings and the number of men to each sling.

Recently Justice Ashburner of the Arbitration Court gave the waterside workers more money, but at the same time gave the shipping companies inconsequential path, leading them what I had seen. The man the right to say how the slings should be loaded, and how many men were to work each sling.

That started the trouble for poorer conditions.

They then walked off the job and their officials approached the Australian Council of Trude Unions.

This body decided to ask Justice Ashburner to provide that employers who want to make alings bigger or gangs smuller must apply to a Board of Reference.

RECORD REVIEW I have heard a 12" LP record of Elvis Preslay. I hope to recover from this in due course.

Mr Presley is the America, it seems. Ho plays the guitar and sings. I fail to see how he gets away with it. All the songs seem to be new ones. I imagine he has to have them specially written for him. The lyrics are of absolutely no importance because you can barely distinguish one word in ten. The only thing about the record worthy of any mention is the rhythm. All the musicians in the band seem to be playing as loud as they can and with a very firm rock 'n roll best. Threy sound as though they are trying to drown Mr Presley's voice. They do not succeed.—RCA Victor LPM 1234—One 12".
